QuIP Training

Those new to the QuIP are encouraged to participate in training before they embark upon a QuIP study. The level of training will depend on the extent to which they intend to be involved in QuIP studies (study design, data collection, analysis). All prices are plus VAT for payments made in the UK.

Course name	Description	Duration	Cost
Online QuIP Lead Evaluator Training	An in-depth introduction to designing a QuIP study, including an overview of analysis techniques. This is an online self-study program and a one-hour individual mentoring session with a member of the Bath SDR team at the end. Participants are accredited as 'Lead Evaluators' on completion of an assignment following the course.	Approx. 10 hours	£500 per person
QuIP Data Collection Training	Access to online course materials for researchers undertaking qualitative field research to prepare them for QuIP data collection. This is complemented by an online workshop of up to 3 hours with the research team to prepare for the specific project being planned. If you would like pilot transcripts reviewed and feedback provided, this is charged separately.	Online + 3-4 hour virtual sessions	£750
QuIP Advanced Coding and Analysis	Access to online course materials for those who intend to code and analyse QuIP data in Causal Map. Prior completion of the Lead Evaluator course is strongly recommended, and access is free if completed within a month of the Lead Evaluator course. Free guidance on Causal Map is available here, but these materials will guide you through the key steps to follow when coding & analysing QuIP data and provide advice and resources on how to use the features of Causal Map to best effect. 1:1 sessions can be provided for further support, charged at £165 per two hour session. A Causal Map subscription needs to be taken out separately and is not provided by BSDR. A free subscription is sufficient for the course, but you may need a paid subscription for planned work.	Online self-study and optional 1:1 sessions	Online materials £100 per login (or free post-LE training) £165 per online support session (up to 2 hours)
